Combining 50-page auto document feeder with A4 flatbed scanning, the AV620C2+ is an ideal choice for workgroups with a demanding workload and limited buget.

The slim flatbed design is made possible by CIS technology. With true 600 dpi optical resolution, the scanner is able to capture the finest detail.

Operation of the AV620C2+ is simple with Avision's exclusive software application, the Button Manager. Users only needs to properly place the document on the scanner, then press the Scan button. The scanning task can be finished within seconds. Best of all, the scanned image can be directly sent to your desirable destination applications.

Start auto scan without connecting to a computer

The AV620C2+ is enhanced with the innovative feature to scan to USB flash drive. By inserting a USB flash drive into the USB flash drive port, the AV620C2+ allows you to start automatic scan without connecting to a computer and save the scanned images to a USB flash drive in predefined settings.

A Large LCD display

The AV620C2+ is easy to use through the enhanced LCD display which allows 16*2 characters. By selecting "USB Disk", the scan can be done automatically. By selecting "PC" and then your desired profile, the scan can be started and the scanned image can be linked to your desired destination application such as e-mail, printer, or image-editing software application. Up to nine frequently used scan settings and destinations can be preset for different scanning needs.

Compact and earth-friendly design

The AV620C2+ is compact and earth-friendly in design since it uses CIS (contact image sensor) technology which requires smaller space and the LED lamp as the light source. The LED lamps are lower power consumption and are designed to last for the life of the scanner.
